

- More Breaking International News
- Perfect strike partnership for UK's 2018 World Cup bid: Becks and Prince William
- Sensing foam can tell when store shelves need restocking
- India to lead regional growth in Asia-Pacific: UN
- India-backer Tony Blair to join JP Morgan
- Blair is now adviser to JPMorgan Chase
- Global FDI touched record $1.5 trillion in 2007: UN
- Polls before 2008-end, says Bangladesh Chief Advisor
- Bush, Olmert discuss Mid-East peace process, Iran
- 151,000 Iraqis have died between 2003 and 2006
- Tottenham hold edge after draw at Arsenal
- Carlos set to talk to Dunga about return to Brazil side
- Top against bottom in Spanish clash of contrasts

Get Malaysia Sun headlines emailed to you daily.

XML RSS RSS
Directory

Schoolboy released from Turkish jail

Malaysia Sun
 Saturday 15th December, 2007

A German schoolboy has been returned to his home after eight months in a Turkish prison.

The 17-year-old boy was arrested in April in the resort town of Antalya, for allegedly sexually assaulting a 13-year-old British girl.

The boy was on holiday with his parents when he met the girl whom he claims said she was older.

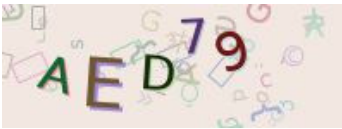

He said he was in love with the girl and his advances had only been of an innocent nature.

The case led to outrage in Germany with Berlin requested the boy's release on several occasions.

The boy was released before the weekend after a hearing in the Antalya court.

 Email this story to a friend

Have your say on this story

Your nickname	<input type="text"/> (optional)
Message	<input type="text"/>
Image verification	 (enter the verification code from the image above) <input type="text"/>
	<input type="button" value="Post comment"/>

Make Your Donation
 Today

Help Rebuild
 Lives & Communities in Hurricane Affected States.

Public Service Ads
 by Google

